

Miss Evelyn Thouson
has been my pupil for several years in English literature and history of art. It was always a pleasure to have Miss Thouson in a class, because of her excellent scholarship, her thoughtful appreciation of the teaching, and her original manner of thought.
Especially in literature, her taste and enthusiasm for the subject helped teacher and class alike.

Although I have not been Miss Thomson's teacher in history, I know that the name may be said of her work in that department—perhaps even more emphatically.

Her influence also on the other pupils was always for good.

Isabel Frances Todd.
