

DISCOVERING PERGE

Celebrating 65 Years of Excavations on Turkey's Mediterranean Coast

The first major warrior portrait from Rome (originally by a different but related artist of Lucius Furius, an officer with Roman honors in 101 BC).
The portrait is a fine example of Roman idealized portraiture in the Republican style.

Portrait of the young of the artist of the Roman Republic, the artist of the Roman Republic. The portrait is a fine example of Roman idealized portraiture in the Republican style.

DANIEL BOULANGER

The 2011-12 Season

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

Programs, Exhibitions &

Events

The most recent imperial portrait from Perge belongs to a colossal cuirassed statue of Lucius Verus, coregent with Marcus Aurelius in 161-169. The portrait is a fine example of Verus's idealized portraits in the Main type.

...the fountain house on the north. The façade embodied two portraits of Hadrian among numerous statues.

...the fountain house on the north. The façade embodied two portraits of Hadrian among numerous statues.

An open water canal runs along the axis of the colonnaded street. The water was supplied by the fountain house on the north. The façade embodied two portraits of Hadrian among numerous statues.

